

Well, here we are. I honestly could have written more, but all stories have to end. The background is another of my photographs of the trees across the street from the high school. The ball of fire<sup>1</sup> was one of the greatest finds ever, and the panicky mob was supplied by Google's ImageFX in response to the prompt, "a group of people running for their lives." Although there are a few quirks in the details, I was genuinely surprised by the rendering. I love the guy in front, who's really getting into it. Below are two more results of the prompt, which are acceptable. But I didn't have room for them.

Efran<sup>2</sup> is trying to get to Minka while he has Treece on his shoulder. I found Minka here, and her hair came from Wallpapers.com. The gray hair and spectacles is a selfie that was posterized and then inverted.

Robin Hardy
June 27, 2024

PS. I am claiming no copyright on this illustration.

1. Created by geralt on Pixabay
2. Photographed by Cathy B. on Pexels